2026 TECH OUTLOOKS

P&C Insurance/Insurtech: 2026 P&C Brokers & Insurtech Outlook:

Positive Broker Bias Amid Rate Moderation

Andrew Andersen | December 19, 2025

- SUMMARY – We favor brokers over carriers into 2026 and large account brokers within the group, as organic momentum mostly holds and select names benefit from macro/sector tailwinds (data centers, M&A svcs, healthcare inflation) and producer productivity which combined also helps drive margin expansion. Top picks in comm'l broker group are AON/WTW. The insurtech test continues into 2026 as competition in personal lines mounts which should benefit Buy-rated GSHD

Software: 2026 Cyber Playbook; Upgrade OKTA to Buy

Joseph Gallo | December 16, 2025

- SUMMARY – Cyber outperformed a soft 1H25 for overall software, while performance in 2H25 was measured. Cyber should remain resilient in 2026 based on strong fundamentals but likely lags any potential material broader AI-driven software rebound. We favor names offering attractive growth, upside to #s, & reasonable vals given performance will be driven by fundamentals rather than mult expansion. Top picks are PANW, ZS, OKTA (upgrade to Buy), AVPT & CRWD

Software: 2026 Coverage Picks and Predictions

Samad Samana | December 15, 2025

- SUMMARY – AI concerns and mixed fundamentals led most of our coverage to decline in 2025. We expect a more balanced leaders/laggards list in 2026. Our leaders include the platforms that likely monetize AI better in 2026 (NOW, TWLO, HUBS, ZM) and the relatively AI-insulated commerce vendors (GLBE, SHOP). Our laggards are the Comms vendors in transition (FIVN, NICE) and large-cap payroll vendors (ADP, PAYX)

Semiconductors: 2026 Outlook – AI Still in Fashion, Semi Cap Run Just Beginning, UG KLAC to Buy

Blayne Curtis | December 14, 2025

- SUMMARY – Sticking with AI into 2026 as ASICs inflect and hyperscaler capex accelerates (AVGO Top Pick). AI should lift Semi Cap, driving demand across Leading Edge, DRAM, and packaging. Lower interest rates make a rotation to Analog appealing with modest earnings/mid-quarter raises. Upside remains on LT normalized earnings, but no signs of a strong upcycle; Auto faces structural shifts

Technology & Information Services: IT Services—2026 Outlook in 10

Bullets and 25 Slides + Top Picks

Surinder Thind | December 12, 2025

- SUMMARY – We expect demand for IT Services to improve in 2026 as some AI proof-of-concept projects move to wider enterprise implementation, with consulting services the beneficiary. However, it's unlikely the bear narrative of industry disruption from AI goes away, but it should get chipped away at, alleviating some of the pressure on multiples. Our top large, mid, and small cap picks within our IT Services coverage are CTSH, EPAM, and GDYN, respectively

Internet: 2026 Internet Playbook

John Colantuoni | December 11, 2025

- SUMMARY – We recommend staying selective across Internet, as incremental investments could limit margin expansion and concerns around AI disintermediation could limit multiple appreciation. We prefer names offering attractive growth and upside visibility, as we expect performance will be driven by fundamentals rather than multiple expansion. Our top picks are APP/ RDDT/ SPOT/ UBER in Large-Cap and ROKU/ Z in SMID-Cap. We upgrade ROKU to Buy and downgrade ACVA to Hold

Brokers, Asset Mgrs & Exchanges: 2026 Outlook: Easing Rates, Expanding Access, & Stronger Deals Drive Optimism

Daniel Fannon | December 9, 2025

- SUMMARY – As we look across our sub-groups, momentum is accelerating as we enter 2026 led by increased capital markets activity, elevated retail engagement, moderating levels of interest rates, and increasing risk appetites. Valuations appear full in certain cases (i.e. Large Brokers), but fundamentals are generally improving. Our favorite ideas are BLK, BX, IBKR, LPLA and MS
